96. People have different images of the world and human nature. We'd like to know the kinds of images you have.

Here is a card with sets of contrasting images. On a scale of 1-7, where would you place your image of the world and human nature between the two contrasting images?

Look at the first set of contrasting images. If you think that "The world is basically filled with evil and sin," you would place yourself at 1. If you think "There is much goodness in the world which hints at God's goodness" you would place yourself at 7. If you think things are somewhere in between these two, you would place yourself at 2, 3, 4, 5 or 6.

Where would you place your image of the world on the scale for....?

Section C Docs/Patients MRI Script

INTRODUCTION TO STRATEGIES

Imagine you've been experiencing headaches. You visit your doctor and talk to him about your symptoms. You also tell the doctor that you've been feeling a lot of stress lately. After doing a complete examination, the doctor decides that the headaches are probably due to stress. The doctor wants to work with you over the next month to reduce your stress.

You want to have an MRI to make sure everything is OK. An MRI is a special and expensive type of x-ray that allows doctors to take detailed pictures of parts of the body such as the heart, spinal cord, or head.

Remember that after your complete examination the doctor thinks you don't need the MRI. Then imagine that you have the following conversation with the doctor about the MRI and financial incentives. In this dialogue, the patient speaks first.

COMMUNICATION STRATEGIES

Imagine that you have the following conversation with the doctor about financial incentives. In this dialogue, the patient speaks first.

STRATEGY 1: DIRECT INFORMATION RE: FINANCES (DISCLOSURE ABOUT PLAN) (cognitive centered communication)

PAT: I'd feel better if I had an MRI. I'm worried that you won't order it because it's too expensive.

DOC: Our physician's group does have financial incentives to keep costs down by avoiding tests when they are not necessary. However, no single decision about an MRI affects my salary. In my opinion an MRI is not needed in your case.

Imagine that you have the following conversation with the doctor about financial incentives. In this dialogue, the patient speaks first.

STRATEGY 2: COMMON ENEMY (affective centered communication)

PAT: I'd feel better if I had an MRI. I'm worried that you won't order it because it's too expensive.

DOC: It used to be that physicians were able to provide tests for patients just to set their minds at rest. Unfortunately, your health plan won't allow me to do it for that reason. Even though I'd like to order it for you, your plan is not going to pay for it.

STRATEGY 3: EMOTION HANDLING (affective centered communication)

PAT: I'd feel better if I had an MRI. I'm worried that you won't order it because it's too expensive.

DOC: I can understand that you're worried about whether everything is OK. It also sounds like you're worried that I'm not ordering the test because it's too expensive. These days with Managed Care lots of people share your worries about this. I want to set your mind at rest because I truly do not think that the test is needed at this point.

Imagine that you have the following conversation with the doctor about financial incentives. In this dialogue, the patient speaks first.

STRATEGY 4: NEGOTIATION (affective centered communication)

PAT: I'd feel better if I had an MRI. I'm worried that you won't order it because it's too expensive.

DOC: I understand that you'd like an MRI to make sure that everything is OK. But based on your symptoms, I really don't think you need one. I'd like to treat you for a month or so and then talk again about whether we need an MRI. Would that be acceptable to you?

Imagine that you have the following conversation with the doctor about financial incentives. In this dialogue, the patient speaks first.

STRATEGY 5: "I'M THE EXPERT" (cognitive centered communication)

PAT: I'd feel better if I had an MRI. I'm worried that you won't order it because it's too expensive.

DOC: I've had a lot of experience taking care of patients with problems like yours. The problem you're having is really quite common. You should follow the treatment I've outlined, and then I can reevaluate the situation again in a month.

Imagine that you have the following conversation with the doctor about financial incentives. In this dialogue, the patient speaks first.

STRATEGY 6: DENYING INFLUENCES (PATERNALISTIC) (cognitive centered communication)

PAT: I'd feel better if I had an MRI. I'm worried that you won't order it because it's too expensive.

DOC: I usually don't order an MRI under circumstances like yours. There's no outside pressure that has made any difference in how I treat patients with headaches. You may set your mind at rest that I'm doing this because this is how I practice medicine.

SAQ A

Social Networks – Ballot 1-3

Now we would like you to complete a brief questionnaire on your own. There are two sections to this self-administered questionnaire.

In the first part, we would like to ask you about your family and friends. For example, about how often you see or visit them, and when you turn to them for help or advice.

Remember that all of your answers are completely confidential. They will not be associated with your name in any way, and will be published in summary form only. If there is a question that you don't want to answer, just hit the [F7] key. When you've answered the last question, you'll see a screen that says "Questionnaire Complete" and you can turn the computer back to me.

Do you have any questions?

DOES THE RESPONDENT AGREE TO DO THE SAQ?

Yes

No Skip to Validation Questions

Most of the questions you answer will require you to select an answer from a list of answers. Use the arrow keys in the lower right-hand corner of the keyboard to highlight the answer you want to select, and press the [Enter] key.

This is a practice question for you to get used to using the computer.

What is your favorite season?

1-Winter

2-Spring

3-Summer

4-Fall

On some screens you may need to use the up and down arrow keys as well as the left and right arrow keys to select the correct response.

Here is an example of such a question:
